Green Thumb Author Named Top Writer

GEORGE Abraham, whose Green Thumb garden column appears in The Daily Record, has been named America's most outstanding horticultural newspaper writer for 1960, by a panel of newspaper judges and horticultural scientists in Washington.

Abraham received the gold-plated statuette in Chicago during the president's banquet at the 78th annual convention for the American Seed Trade Assn.

The Green Thumb, whose garden column has appeared in this paper since 1952, is widely read among gardeners in this area.

In presenting the Green Thumb with the country's highest writing award, Abraham was cited for "outstanding contributions in horticultural writing and for highlighting the importance of horticulture to the American nation."

The author has won national recognition several times for his horticultural writings. Last year a panel of newspaper judges in Kansas City cited Abraham as one of the seven best garden writers in the U.S. In 1954 the Green Thumb was again cited by the National Garden Bureau in Chicago for special contributions in the field of horticultural journalism.

Four months ago, Editor and Publisher, the voice of the journalism industry honored Abraham and his wife, Katy, in a full length story on the Green Thumb saga, relating how it grew from a single weekly to 80 dailies and weeklies throughout the nation, with a combined newspaper-radio audience of over 3,000,000.

Abraham and his wife own and operate a greenhouse where many ideas for the column originate. Both studied horticulture and journalism at Cornell University. Recently, the Green Thumb man-and-wife family enterprise was written in a full color story by Richard Thruelsen, associate editor of the Saturday Evening Post. Mrs. Abraham is listed in Who's Who of American Women, and her husband is also listed in the current supplement of Who's Who.

Last year the Green Thumb received over 60,000 pieces of mail.

ONE Northampton youth was killed and another injured Saturday night six miles from Bath as their car went out of control and rolled 182 feet.

William E. Messenlegrer, 17, of Northampton, was killed, and Lewis Liberto, 16, of Bath, the driver, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Bethlehem where he is in fair condition.

The accident happened about 9 p.m. Saturday in Moore Township on legislative route 48053.

13,000 Visit Kutztown For Dutch Affair

KUTZTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Backers of the Pennsylvania Dutch Folk Festival said Sunday they had the best Sunday crowd in the 12-year history of the show—13,000 and maybe more.

The fair opened Saturday, and runs all through this week, further highlighting the Fourth of July season with sportiveness and cuisine characteristic of a people steeped in tradition and devoted to good food.

The Saturday attendance was reported at more than 14,000, and this, too, was called a record.

Much of the attention Sunday was focused on the grangers, men of the farms, who demonstrated wheat threshing in the old-fashioned way.

It is a part of their annual performance to pick from among the spectators one who will be queen. Sunday this honor fell to Antoinette Laudati, 14, of Staten Island, N. Y.

With the festival only two days old, the people who do the cooking and serving already are feeling the strain. But long ago the way was found to cope with the enormous demand for hearty dishes—keep the cooks at it night and day. So the girls and housewives from the churches and Pennsylvania Dutch societies apply themselves to the stoves and kitchen work tables all round the clock.

Four Cars Damaged; Woman Cut

A CHAIN REACTION bumper smash was set off when a Stroudsburg RD 3 woman avoided a dog on N. Ninth St. at 9:30 last night and damaged her car and three parked vehicles.

Mrs. Thelma H. Ockershausen was driving north on Ninth St. at the intersection of Thomas and Ninth Sts. when, according to Stroudsburg police, she said a dog ran out in front of her car.

To avoid hitting the dog, she swerved and hit a parked car owned by Joyce and Robert Pugh, of 126 Wayne St., Stroudsburg. The car, a 1956 sedan, had slight damage to the front bumper.

Her car careened off and struck another parked car, this one owned by Harold Angle, of 71 Broad St., Stroudsburg. She hit the rear of the Angle auto and demolished it.

The force of impact sent the 1956 Angle car smashing into the rear of the car in front. This last car is owned by Gloria and Wayne Willet, of Stroudsburg RD 3 and is a 1958 sedan. The impact damaged the rear bumper and tail light.

The Ockershausen car was demolished. Mrs. Ockershausen had slight cuts of the mouth when her face struck the steering wheel.

Market Value Boost Presages Subsidy Cut

MARKET VALUE of real estate in Monroe County increased 4.4 percent from 1959 to 1960, State Tax Equalization Board figures released Friday show.

Market valuation is the key figure from which the state determines the amount of subsidies school districts will receive.

The higher the market value, the lower the subsidy.

The latest result is expected to bring cries from school districts which already stand to lose about $8 in state aid through earlier market value rises.

Monroe values went up $6,403,500, from a 1959 figure of $145,499,100 to 1960's $151,902,600. Stroud Union district alone rose over a million dollars.

East Stroudsburg took the only county value dip, decreasing from $18,349,100 in 1959 to $17,852,100 in 1960.

Pocono Township also took a big jump, increasing in real value from $7,747,200 in 1959 almost a million dollars to $8,614,800 last year.

Statewide figures showed an increase of 3 percent between 1959 and 1960 to a new total of $34.3 billion. Values increased in all but 373 of the state's 2,244 school districts.

The Equalization Board said that the changes do not necessarily mean that individual properties have increased in value.

"A combination of reasons account for market value changes in individual districts; new construction and other properties added to tax rolls, depletion of natural resources, razing of buildings, fire and flood destruction, transfers to and from tax-exempt rolls, formation of union districts, annexations, changes in economic conditions, additional market value evidence heretofore unavailable, and redevelopment projects," were some reasons named by the board.

Price Paradox

Consumer prices seem to come with a paradox attached. In February, during the depth of the recent recession when there were 5,700,000 workers looking for jobs, the price index held steady at the record high of 127.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. With business recovery well under way and about a million workers taken off the unemployment rolls, the price index declined a tenth of one per cent to 127.4.

If statistics had a heart, they would be reversed: declining prices during off times and a stabilized index when things got better. But nature seems to have taken a hand in May as meat and grocery prices edged lower.

Chickens were in abundance and cheaper. And producers had to mark down beef, pork and lamb prices to compete with the chicken counter. The food component in the index thus dropped 0.4 per cent.

But transportation costs increased 0.5 per cent and medical care, as usual, went up also.

So, if you've been eating steaks and lamb chops these days, enjoy them. The Labor Department, which issues these vital statistics, says that the next time we hear from them, food prices probably will have gone back to their record level, if not higher. A tenth of one per cent isn't very much to overcome.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Is It War?

It must have been a bitter pill for President Kennedy to have to admit that his Vienna meeting with Khrushchev was a total failure. It must also startle the American people that the reports that came from Vienna were incomplete. We ought to be able to get straight-forward accounts of so important an event.

The impression that the American people got was that something satisfactory but necessarily secret occurred at Vienna. We now know that it was all unsatisfactory and that Khrushchev has brought us closer to war than ever before.

Khrushchev has unquestionably made it clear that he cannot retreat from his intransigent position that Berlin must be absorbed by East Germany.

Khrushchev has come around to the Stalin doctrine of no retreat.

President Kennedy said in his press conference:

Discussions will be profitable if the Soviets will accept in Berlin—and indeed in Europe—self-determination, which they profess in other parts of the world, and if they will work sincerely for peace rather than an extension of power."

The answer to this is that as long as Khrushchev pursues the Stalin doctrine, he cannot accept self-determination about any question concerning which Soviet Russia has taken a final position. And Khrushchev has taken a final position on Berlin.

Is it then war? It is impossible to believe that the President had any other purpose in his opening statement to the press conference than to alert the American people to the danger that is in sight and that we must be ready for war at any cost.

It was a very serious man who spoke to the press on Wednesday. It was a man who had hoped for peace and who sees war ahead. Khrushchev apparently has given the President no alternative and when President Kennedy said that he saw no summit meeting in sight his voice was sharp and conclusive. He apparently had had enough.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Expense Accounts

It would not be absurd for one who was accustomed to live in a log cabin to find a $30 a day expense account not only sufficient but with ample to spare.

He might live on hamburgers and hot dogs, sleep wherever he could, sponge on his acquaintances, use kerosene instead of gasoline for his car, wear a Beatrix costume and shave on Christmas and Easter only.

For the business man, particularly salesman, $30 a day is almost too little to bother about, particularly if it is necessary to keep books too. And that is the worst thing about all these tax matters—the keeping of books. Let the boss get indigestion! Let the Japanese or West Germans sell the goods!

The United States pays $30,000 a year for Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's apartment at the Waldorf Astoria. It is not too much. Such an ambassador has to entertain constantly and he must have a suitable place for that purpose. We want votes in the United Nations and we need to do what is necessary and usual to get them.

What would happen to Adlai Stevenson's representation at the United Nations if he were permitted to spend only $30 a day. Off-hand I would say that he would meet with complete failure.

Many of the delegates would be insulted because they were not invited to dinner according to protocol. This is the way of the world. For $30 a day, Stevenson could not do much entertaining at the Waldorf or any other hotel or restaurant in New York.

Of course, some business men have abused the expense accounts, for which there can be no justification. They charge everything that other men normally pay for themselves out of earnings to their business expense account.

But the fact that some men are dishonest does not justify hogging American business so that it cannot do its work adequately. That is the fallacy of generalizing from the particular.

One of the most important phases of American business activity is the convention. There men meet those who are in the same line or who have similar or associated interests.

There they listen to speeches on important subjects, often by representatives of government. There new ideas are widely circulated and new products are exhibited. The convention is essential to the conduct of modern business because men live so far apart.

Such conventions are usually held in large cities where there are suitable convention halls or in such special places as Hot Springs where the hotels are adjusted for the purposes. New York City has recently built the Coliseum for convention purposes at great expense.

Many large cities maintain convention bureaus to get the conventions to come to their cities. As regards political conventions cities are known to make a heavy contribution to the convention fund.

The idea is that the shops, theaters, restaurants, hotels benefit from conventions which bring considerable money into the town and they are worthwhile.

No one could attend a convention today on a top limit of $30 a day. It would hardly pay for food, drinks and cigars. If it were one of those affairs to which the wife was brought to prove that the male animal really was a very busy man, doing honest and useful work, $30 a day would barely pay for the extra clothes mamma had to buy so that she might look as presentable as the rest of the folks. No man wants to hear:

"Business must be bad for Jack. Look at his wife! She wears clothes that a steno would not be seen in."

That can start sensitive business rumors that could do considerable damage. Business has many facets, not the least of which is establishing sound credit not only in the sense of current balances but confidence in the future. In this respect an expense account becomes as important as advertising or public relations.

When an expense account is used as untaxed salary, the twister should be punished for fraud. But when the expense account is used to stimulate business, to improve a product, to exchange ideas, to bring in customers, to be productive in the national welfare, then it is more than justified by the results it attains.

Certainly $30 a day, at present prices, is not enough for anything.

The Pennsylvania Story

Threat On Life

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — It was perhaps a timely prelude to the upcoming Fourth of July fireworks as the occasion is officially celebrated tomorrow—but the "prelude" has no place on the Pennsylvania scene.

We're referring to the threat on the life of one of Pennsylvania's Senators — Cambria County's John J. Haluska — made public by the lawmaker on the floor of the Senate last week.

In the short interim of time since the incident was made public, it is peculiar perhaps, but around Capital Hill there have been some rather snide and supposedly comical quips concerning the senator's incident.

The salient fact seems to be that any threat on anyone's life should not be taken lightly.

But perhaps more significant than anything else is the fact that in this case the threat was made on a duly elected public official — an official in fact charged with helping promulgate the very laws of society by which the threatening hoodlums live!

The meat of the matter is of no consequence — that is, the "reason" why the thugs wrote the threatening (unsigned) note. (The writers, according to the Cambria County senator, opposed the idea of his committee to which bills tightening strip mine back-filling requirements had been referred, holding public hearings.)

Elected public officials may be held up to scorn, ridiculed and even chastized bitterly—but a threat on his or her life unquestionably is carrying the protest too far.

It smacks strongly and offensively of hoodlums who have lost their social sanity and respect for the "rules" of society — which indignantly permits these thugs and hoodlums to exist in the first place!

Mr. Haluska has asked State Police and the FBI to enter the case. The Senator from Cambria seemingly is quite right — not from the standpoint of personal protection (although that may be his main concern) but from the standpoint of correcting an evil "permitted" to exist in the first place.

It isn't a question of whether Senator Haluska is a Democrat or Republican. It isn't a question of whether he is an industrial executive or a laborer. It isn't a question of religious preference.

It boils down to the simple fact that a threat on the life of one elected by society as its servant — as its representative, or as one who helps draw up the rules and regulations by which society lives — is indeed as reckless disregard for the precepts by which this country lives as is remotely conceivable.

Mr. Haluska asked for a State Police investigation — quite properly so. Have State Police moved on the query?

They did — post haste, be it to their everlasting credit — regardless of the fact that some around Capital Hill at first viewed the incident as one big joke.

State Police Commissioner Frank G. McCartney doesn't look upon it as a joke in any sense of the word!

It is to be sincerely hoped that State Police will be able to run down the difficult task of finding the person or persons responsible for the threat.

When it comes to threatening a lawmaker — not because of any particular "personage" factor, but because he is elected to help decide what society as a whole shall do and shall not do — then it is time for drastic action against those who would flaunt this basic democratic concept.

Tomorrow may be July Fourth — but the fireworks in this particular case will come later.

Notes for a Holiday

Idea can change the course of history only when they are rooted in the will of the people.

Without that basis, the loftiest ideas are nothing more than pious wishes. . . . As late as July 6th, 1775, the American Congress formally disavowed any intentions of forming an independent government. However, Tom Paine's pamphlet, "Common Sense," with its ringing demand for independence captured the minds and hearts of the people and forged the will for independence. Jefferson shaped that will in the form of the Declaration.

Every United Nations delegate should read the record of America's Continental Congress. It would serve as an inspiration—and a guide. Delegates to the Continental Congress represented different social viewpoints, different economic interests and different political philosophies. Nevertheless, they compromised and united to form a great nation—since they realized that disunity endangered them all.

As one delegate noted: "It is better to put up a fence that does not please everybody's fancy than keep disputing about it until the wild beasts come and devour the crop."

Late in October 1921 the bodies of four American soldiers (buried in four different American cemeteries in France) were disinterred. On each grave was a number and the words: "Here Rests in Honored Glory an American Soldier Known by God."

The records containing fragments of information about these dead men were completely destroyed. Their caskets were draped with an American flag. And while a French military band played a hymn—an American soldier walked slowly around the caskets carrying a spray of roses. After several moments of pacing—the soldier placed the roses on one casket, stepped back and saluted.

And that's how America's Unknown Soldier was chosen. Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence in seventeen years old. After completing the initial draft, Jefferson showed it privately to Adams and Franklin. They suggested several minor corrections. Jefferson re-wrote the entire document incorporating the suggested changes and then presented it to the committee—which approved it unanimously. After the text was placed before Congress, Jefferson listened to the often stinging criticism of his work while taking notes of the proceedings, which lasted three days. So meticulous a diarist was he—he included every detail of the historic meeting—even noting the changes in the temperature of the room.

It was not generally known Jefferson authored the Declaration when it was made public. The historic document was publicly presented as the work of Congress as a whole.

The Allen-Scott Report

Sloppy Workmanship

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — A massive array of investigators is digging into reports of extensive "sloppy workmanship" on the construction of U.S. warships.

The Navy, Justice Department and three different congressional committees have launched such probes as a result of Vice Admiral W. M. Beakley's recent charge that the new aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk had more than the usual number of defects when turned over to the Navy in the spring.

Later, backing up Beakley's blunt accusation, the Navy stated there had been "more unacceptable work in this ship . . . than is normally expected."

Involved in the flurry of investigations are more than 20 vessels, including two nuclear-powered Polaris submarines. Approximately half of them are being built at Camden, N.J.

The congressional committees looking into this disturbing situation are the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Committee, the House Armed Services Committee, and the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee. All have assigned staff specialists to conduct inquiries and submit detailed reports "for possible further action."

The Justice Department is checking out matters particularly — complaints of lax security in the shipyards, and a number of instances of conflict of interest.

FBI agents are investigating the reports of vital internal sections of a nuclear submarine, including the launching tubes of the solid-fuel Polaris missile.

These revealing pictures were reportedly taken from an unguarded vantage point adjoining the shipyard.

One of the conflict-of-interest cases involves a Navy reactor expert who went to work for a ship company a few months after it was awarded a contract for a nuclear submarine. The expert had participated in the granting of this contract.

Admiral Hyman A. Rickover, "father" of the growing nuclear submarine fleet, recommended this affair be scrutinized. Also being probed is the discovery of a fully equipped machine shop sealed up inside an aircraft carrier. During its sea trials, crewmen tracing a mysterious power line uncovered the machine shop sealed inside a bulkhead.

The House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, at the behest of Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., has asked the Navy for two detailed reports — what it has paid for repairs on the Kitty Hawk and other defective new ships, and the practice of making advance payments on ship contracts.

Flood has been informed that in recent years the Navy has made considerable advance payments to shipbuilders. He wants the facts on that for public airing.

Now Hear This — Admiral Harry Felt, commander of Navy forces in the Pacific, has informed the Joint Chiefs of Staff that Communist advances in Laos are due primarily to heavy artillery than pro-Western troops. According to him, the Reds are armed with 106mm guns flown in by the Soviet starting last December.

The pro-Western forces have no artillery of this caliber. Felt also estimates Red combat strength at around 30,000, including 10,000 troops from North Vietnam.

On the basis of an alarming report from the Central Intelligence Agency, the Navy massed a huge fleet in the Caribbean following the assassination of Dominican dictator Trujillo. The CIA warned the Cuban dictator Fidel Castro was preparing to invade the Dominican Republic, and the Navy was ordered to prevent that.

The force under command of Admiral Claude Ricketts, new Vice Chief of Naval Operations, consisted of more than 40 warships, including two big carriers, submarines and 500 combat-ready Marines. Admiral Ricketts' armada patrolled the waters off the Dominican Republic, stopping and checking suspicious ships headed there.

The nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, due to put to sea next winter, may be a ship without a home port. Equipped with eight atom engines, the vessel will be kept out of major harbors in accordance with safety requirements of the Navy and Atomic Energy Commission. The carrier will anchor well off-shore.

During Japanese Prime Minister Ikeda's talks with President Kennedy, he was given assurances that the Okinawa military base will be restored to Japan "as soon as it can be spared." The million-dollar base is a key bastion of U.S. forces in the Far East, and Kennedy's promise was a reiteration of similar statements by former President Truman and Eisenhower.

Ryukyu Island, on which the Okinawa base is located, has a native population of around 1,000,000. The peace treaty with Japan recognized its ownership of Ryukyu.

Emperor Haile Selassie, once wholly pro-Western, is shifting to the neutralist camp. The Ethiopian ruler has signed an economic agreement with satellite Czechoslovakia for the establishment of a shoe factory and other plants. . . . Turkey has made a deal with a Bavarian farmers' union to train 500 Turkish farmers in modern methods. They will be sent to Germany for that purpose.

New Activity Planned At Barrett Y

Mountainhome—A group of young boys from the local area will provide music for weekly square dances to be held at the Barrett Branch YMCA Wednesday nights, beginning at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday.

The group is known as the "Spruce Mountain Stump Jumpers" and is led by Robert Van Why.

This new activity is being sponsored in answer to requests by local residents for entertainment of this type, YMCA officials said.

The dances will be held on the existing basketball court in front of the YMCA. Additional spotlights will be put up to illuminate the dancing. For those who wish to just sit and watch, chairs will be provided. Beginning the first season, admission will be 35 cents per person. The dance is intended for all members of local families, and for those needing instruction, teachers will be available.

The survey also said Soviet colleges trained 120,000 engineers last year against 38,000 in the United States.

POX THREATENS CONGO SCHOOL...

milk is the lifesaver! When chicken pox or measles hit schools in America it's mildly serious. But in the Congo it's terrifying. The little girls at Mutato school were raised on a diet tragically lacking protein. Low resistance to the simplest diseases invited killers like meningitis and pneumonia. Protein supplement was needed fast . . . and milk was the answer. It came in time . . . in the form of powdered milk from America.

This lifesaver was sent by Americans supporting the Overseas Aid Program of their faith. While this case is Protestant— all three faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain overseas programs that meet such emergencies, as well as provide basic food, clothing, shelter, jobs, education, tools and equipment to the millions in need.

Next time you are asked to support your faith's Overseas Aid Program, remember what milk did for the little girls at Mutato school!

Capital Gains Distributions

By William A. Doyle

Q. My husband and I are about to retire. Like many other people, our problem is retirement income. We have been advised to put our money into shares of Investment Co. of America, a mutual fund, and to take all dividends and capital gains distributions in cash.

By taking the capital gains distributions in cash, won't we be putting our hands in our own pockets? As we see it, capital-gains distributions are just a return of capital.

A. Yes, when a mutual fund shareholder takes capital-gains distributions in cash, he does "put his hands in his own pockets." But, if the fund does well, there will always be more "in the pocket."

You are absolutely correct when you call capital gains distributions a return of capital. The mailbag shows that, for some reason, many people don't understand this.

Mutual funds make distributions to their shareholders from two sources — income and capital gains. Most funds give their shareholders the right to take these distributions in either cash or additional shares.

Income represents the dividends and interest the mutual fund receives on the stocks and bonds it holds in its investment portfolio. That income is distributed to shareholders in the form of dividends — income dividends.

Capital gains represent the net profits the fund realizes by selling securities from its investment portfolio at higher prices than it paid for those securities. This is not income. It is distributed to shareholders as capital gains distributions. To the shareholders, it's a return of their own money — a return of capital.

If you spend your capital-gains distributions, you spend your capital. However, this does not necessarily mean that the total value of your remaining investment will drop.

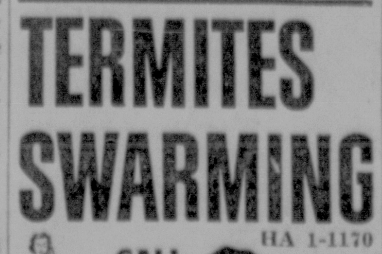

Assuming that the fund invests successfully, the value of the shares you own will grow. If the fund does well, you can take out some profits in the form of capital-gains distributions and still see the value of your investment grow.

Q. I am amazed at the number of letters in your column from people who say that they have asked their bankers about buying stocks. My banker knows less about stocks than the average businessman and tells me that most of his associates find little time or inclination to keep informed about stocks. Do these same people borrow money through their stock brokers?

A. It's doubtful that the "same people" do. But many others do. When a person buys stock on margin he puts up only the required amount (70 percent, these days) of cash or collateral. He borrows the rest through his broker. It's done all the time.

As for buying stocks through a bank, that is also a common practice. Much, of course, depends on the bank with which you deal. Many banks do a big

Lawton Huffman Installs And Services Carrier Products

Simpler in construction and more trouble-free . . . smaller in size and lighter in weight . . . higher in capacity and lower in power consumption . . . The inside story of the amazing Carrier Micromite Com-pressor as shown above in the cut-a-way picture. A Carrier Air Conditioner . . . sold, installed and serviced by Lawton Huffman Company, Marshalls Creek.

See The New Carrier Micromite Today

LAWTON Huffman Co., of Marshalls Creek, dealers, installers and servicers of Carrier Refrigeration and Air Conditioning introduce the amazing Carrier Micromite — pound-for-pound champion of refrigeration compressors.

This is a thumbnail description of the remarkable Carrier Micromite. The Carrier Micromite line is a totally new series of small-to-medium size welded shell hermetic compressors with nominal capacities from one and one-half to five tons. They are everything the name "Micromite" implies . . . small in size, weight and power consumption — mighty in capacity and durability.

The Micromite is the result of a completely new philosophy of simplified precision design for compressors. By machining the cylinder block, bearing housing and motor support all in one simultaneous operation, positive alignment of internal components is assured without the use of gaskets, seals or bolts.

As a result of this revolution in precision manufacturing, only one threaded connection is used in the entire assembly — and that holds the discharge line in place. The major explanation of the micromite's sensational pound-for-pound performance is speed. Historically, reductions in the size and weight of compressors have been achieved through an increase in revolutions per minute, to the point where the 100-pound, 3500 rpm Micromite of today is a capacity match for the best 160 rpm compressors of 30 years ago weighing 40 times as much and bulking 90 times bigger.

But take an X-ray look through the Micromite's sealed steel shell. See for yourself the many exclusive features that make it the "New lightweight champion of the World."

The Carrier Micromite is your best investment because it's quieter, more economical, dependable, smaller in size and simple in design . . . To really find out what the Carrier Micromite means to you and can do for you see Lawton Huffman Company, Marshalls Creek.

Businessman OF The Week

THIS Week's Businessman of The Week is L. V. Morman of L. V. Morman & Son Floorcovering, located at 326 Main St., Stroudsburg.

The roll of floorcovering is Armstrong's new "Elegante" Linoleum, a combination of time-tested linoleum, translucent plastic and glittering metallic. "Elegante" is just one of the new patterns that have arrived in the last week.

latest patterns has made the organization a leader in their business since 1926.

Morman, a veteran businessman in the community was graduated from Middletown School of Commerce with a degree in Business Administration. He has had wide experience in the floorcovering and furniture fields. His present line includes linoleum, yard goods and tiles, vinyl floorcoverings, wall tile (plastic or ceramic), maintenance material for all types of floors, venetian blinds, and also a window shade department where shades are cut to order. He is assisted in business by one of his four sons, Victor, who heads their service department. Morman's hobby is gardening and he especially enjoys his work with trees. He is a member of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and is married to the former Beale Scrutts.

NON-CHALKING

Always remember to tell your reputable paint dealer what sort of paint job you plan to do. For example, if there is masonry below the siding of your home, he'll advise a non-chalking paint, which will not stain the stonework. Chalking paints are designed to be self-cleaning. They wear away gradually as a fine chalky powder which is washed downwards by the rain. They're meant for all wood or all-masonry construction.

PRIME IMPORTANCE

When painting bare or new wood be sure to use the primer recommended by the manufacturer of the decorative top coat. In many ways the primer is the most important part of the paint job, for unless it adheres firmly to the surface, succeeding coats will not remain firm.

WHAT'S NEW on the market? The product — a power block plane. It weighs only 4 1/2 pounds and can be held in one hand.

The manufacturer's claim—that it is a new concept in planing because it not only is faster than its non-powered predecessors, but does a wider variety of operations, including edge planing, beveling, rabbeting and surface planing.

The product — an all-purpose masonry-kitt. It includes all the materials and tools needed for a cement job and is packaged in its own plastic mortar box.

The manufacturer's claim — that its key ingredient is a unique, pre-blended masonry product requiring no additive but water and that it will bond to cement, stone, brick, flagstone and steel.

The product — a spray designed to prevent mildew. The manufacturer's claim—that it kills spores instantly, stops mildew before it starts, ends odor and will prevent mildew formation for an entire season.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrool

Ingratitude is one of the easiest faults to be guilty of. Instead of being grateful for a mid-week holiday to break the routine, most of us resent working a day in between, especially at 90 in the shade, and envy everybody whose holiday runs from Friday until Wednesday.

Instead of being grateful for happy letters from my children, Nancy on a trip to Loch Lomond and Pete sailing on Pujet Sound, I look wistfully at all the other families with the children home for the long holiday.

Although not envious of all those hot meals they'll have to cook when, by themselves, it could be something quick, cool and easy, I'll have to admit in all honesty.

An article in one of the Sunday papers said that European travel was down this Spring, but they must have skipped over Monroe County: Dr. and Mrs. Paul Shiffer have just come home. Dr. Ruth Kistler has just left.

And yesterday I learned that young Tru Hellmann and Lynn Scheible are going to be spending the summer in Germany, and Debbie Peeney is due to take off sometime soon. Gretchen Wyckoff is already on her way as an exchange student. Mrs. M. J. Leitner is painting somewhere on the coast of France, and the Jordans are on the Continent.

No wonder that in the hot Sunday afternoon doldrums that settled on Main Street yesterday as soon as the churches emptied, I got the feeling that everybody had left town. Anyway, I'm glad you're here. Stay safe until Wednesday.

Mrs. Dunlap President Of Legion Aux.

Poccano Lake — The Ladies Aux. of the Wilson-Fischer Post American Legion, at their June meeting with 20 members present and one new member, Mrs. Beverly Lewis met at the post home.

Mrs. Pauline Dunlap presided at the meeting when reports were given. Mrs. Myrtle Avery, poppy chairman, reported $38.75 was turned in on the sale of poppies. A letter was read from the unit's adopted boy at Scotland School.

The new flag purchased last month was displayed. New officers to be installed in September by Mrs. Marion McKeever include: president, Mrs. Pauline Dunlap; first vice president, Mrs. Jeanne Miller; second vice president, Miss Gladys Dyson; secretary, Mrs. Helen Lutkowski; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Annabelle Clark; treasurer, Mrs. Sallie Christman; chaplain, Mrs. Pauline Dalley; historian, Mrs. Marion Altemose; sergeants at arms, Mrs. Bernice Lewis and Mrs. Dorothy Smoko.

There will be no meetings in July and August. Members closed their year by going to Cresco for bowling and refreshments at a restaurant. Present were Mrs. Pauline Dunlap, Mrs. Bernice Dyson, Mrs. Sallie Christman, Mrs. Helen Lutkowski, Mrs. Jeanne Miller, Mrs. Barbara Trutt, Mrs. Fred Johnson, Mrs. Sylvia Gibbons, Mrs. Pauline Dalley, Mrs. Mary Dyson, Mrs. Mary Moscatel, Mrs. Marion Altemose, Mrs. Annabelle Clark, Mrs. Thelma Wilson, Mrs. Mary Majer, Mrs. Beverly Lewis, Mrs. Harriet Coleman, Mrs. Myrtle Avery and Mrs. Gertrude Runiewicz.

At the meeting of the Mount Zion Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service in the church annex, a report of the recent strawberry festival showed 170 persons had attended. Penningtons Honored On 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pennington, of 203 Stokes Ave., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Saturday, July 1. Their son, Thomas G. Pennington, and their daughter, Mrs. A. N. Dietrick, entertained in their honor with an open house to their friends.

There were friends from Slatington, Chicago, Pen Argyl and the Stroudsburgs. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pennington were associated with the Wyckoff-Sears Store for many years. They are active members of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and of its church choir.

Mr. Pennington is a retired member of Phoenix Fire Dept., a member of Barger Lodge 325, F. of A. M., and is also a 32nd degree member of Keystone Consistory, Valley of Scranton.

At Camp Lloyd Treible, the Girl Scouts' own campsite given to them by Mrs. Lloyd Treible and the late Mr. Treible, the enrollment has made a second bus necessary this year. There are 98 girls registered for each of the two weeks of whom 55 will be attending both weeks, July 24 through Aug. 3.

The program will be the same as at Appenzel. Mrs. Roger Acker will direct camp programs and activities in both camps. Mrs. J. L. Cohen, council president, will assist. Mrs. David Bernbaum is camp chairman. Dear Abby

Bird Calls, Misfits

Dear Abby: The bird your reader inquired about, with the shiny black plumage and yellow beak is the starling. It is found in the U.S.A. and Canada all year 'round. I discovered this bird while I was hanging out my wash in my short shorts. I heard a long, low whistle and thought a man was trying to be fresh with me.

I am told they eat destructive insects, but they can also drill holes in your roof and are extremely dirty. They make a terrible racket when a flock of them gets together. They are an amusing and handsome bird, but will soon be the world's worst feathered pest.

MRS. F.
Dear Mrs. F.: Not while the pigeon is with us!

Dear Abby: Our son is marrying a girl from a very high-toned family. The girl's mother asked me for a list of the people we want at the wedding. She said I could invite my relatives. Some of our relatives are not very classy. I don't want to sound like I am trying to snub them, but I know they wouldn't fit in too good with the girl's people. How can I invite part of the family (the part I think will fit in) and leave the other part out?

MOTHER OF THE GROOM
Dear Mother: If you plan to invite the relatives—invite all the relatives. There will probably be a few rascals on the girl's side who will fit in perfectly with yours.

Dear Abby: I have not made a habit of reading letters to Abby, but I think I shall, for each time my glance falls upon your column I realize what I have missed in the study of human nature.

I was particularly intrigued with a letter signed "Mother of a Doctor." She was disgusted with her daughter-in-law who insisted on referring to her husband as "The Doctor."

I am reminded of Bill and Marie, whom we have known since childhood. Colonel was a dime a dozen in the last war, but Marie started calling her husband "The Colonel." This revealed an inferiority complex and a lack of taste.

As a West Pointer and ex-Captain, I wouldn't tolerate my wife's calling me "The Captain." My father was a doctor, and none of us (least of all my mother) called him "The Doctor." There were 50 other good ones in our town. "Mother of a Doctor" has my sympathy.

EX-CAPTAIN

Confidential To Mrs. P. T.: When your son starts telling you he prefers blonds baby-sitters, he doesn't need one.

Dear Abby: I am faced with a very awkward situation. We frequently invite a few friends to our home for a game of cards.

We know a couple and, my husband does business with the man. His wife is real nice, but the husband uses the filthiest language I ever heard. He doesn't have to lose his temper or get excited or anything. He just uses these dirty words, one after another, for no reason whatever.

I cannot stand this man's talk any longer, and some of our friends who have been in his company in our home feel the same way about him. What can be done (tactfully) about it?

AGAINST DIRTY TALK
Dear Against: Tell your husband to see his foul-mouthed friend during business hours. If you enjoy the wife's company, socialize with her during the daytime.

Fire Strikes Syrian Villages

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Fire swept five Syrian border villages Saturday and struck across the Turkish-Syrian frontier, destroying some Turkish crops, the semi-official Middle East News Agency reported Sunday.

The blaze, started by an Arab farmer's reaping machine, destroyed crops over an estimated 1,000 acres, the agency said. Turkish border authorities arrested the farmer who was helping to put out the blaze, the agency added.

Court Drops Case Against Col. Tucker

SCRANTON — Chief Federal Judge John W. Murphy has dismissed charges against a former Army officer who was accused of receiving gifts from contractors while the Army Signal Corps Depot at Tobyhanna was being built.

The indictment against Charles S. Tucker, former lieutenant colonel and resident engineer at the depot, was dropped on motion of the government.

The action followed on the heels of Federal Judge Frederick V. Follmer's action at Williamsport Thursday in dismissing an indictment against two former contractors on the project.

In its written motion for dismissal of the indictment against Tucker, whose conviction in a second trial was reversed by an appeals court, the government indicated that an illness of the jurist (Judge Murphy) prevented any move for a third trial.

However, Judge Murphy said he was not ill at the time and that the government delayed while other matters took over the docket.

New Jersey Seeks Route 80 Speedup

COMMUNITY representatives along Interstate 80 in New Jersey from Delaware Water Gap to New York City will meet soon to urge a step-up in the construction of that highway, which will reduce the cross-state mileage over U. S. 46 from 85 to 67 miles.

The Highway Information Association of New Jersey, James Haskins, manager, is arranging for the meeting, the purpose of which will be to organize an association similar to K.S.A.

Several links of Route 80 in New Jersey are under construction or completed. However, the objective is to concentrate on accelerating construction in hopes that travel might be available sooner than the present time-table calls for.

In not too many years officials hope that motorists will be traveling on Interstate 80 from Chicago to New York City. This route would embrace the Indiana and Ohio Turnpikes, the 18-mile Shortway extension in Ohio, the Shortway from Sharon to Delaware Water Gap in Pennsylvania and thence across New Jersey to the George Washington Bridge.
